MAIN

Today's young people are often criticized for taking an unrealistic attitude toward life. For looking through their rose-colored glasses, they have been termed idlers, dreamers, idealists; some, Hippies. Yet, similarly, once in Japan, the Haiku poets looked at life with this same unusual view in order to understand it better. Simply by looking at a familiar, commonplace object or happening, the Haiku poet could explore new depths of his imagination, seeing beauty or majesty, or even revealing some new awakening. Similarly, as graduates about to leave the security of high school to venture into the uncertainties and restlessness of the adult world, we need to reexamine, review, and see things anew. Each of us has his own personal dream, his future goal. Let us not merely keep it a secret, smiling to ourselves, but persevere to attain this end, smiling at the world.

CAFETERIA WORKERS

"Agnes, get the hacksaw!"

One of the most difficult tasks facing any staff member at Weymouth High School is that of the cafeteria; the planning and preparation of well-balanced nutritious meals for the more than one thousand four hundred students and teachers. The pleasant and energetic ladies of the kitchen perform the task with exceptional skill.

EVELYN I. MacKEAN

CUSTODIANS

Weymouth High School Custodians. Bob Smith, Gus Sundberg, Ed Taber, Charlie Butler, Al Cicchese, Thomas Spada, Norman Ryerson, Harold Thomas, Herbert Loud.

The custodians of Weymouth High work very diligently to maintain our beautiful building and grounds. Their friendly countenances add cheerfulness to the daily routine of the students and encourage them to take pride in their school. The knights of the broom and heroes of the cleanup are a very real and memorable part of the W.H.S. spirit.

Sal Abruzzese and Charlie Butler set up to clean the corridors.

Thomas Spada prepares to touch up the paint around the high school.

With the final tick of the clock on Thanksgiving Day, the Weymouth Maroons ended a very successful season. Their 9-0 record is especially commendable since they had to adjust to the methods of a new coach, Mr. Wheeler. All eyes focused on him to see how his freshman year at Weymouth would end. On November 23, any doubts that may have prevailed in September were dismissed as Coach Wheeler steered his team to the League Championship. None of this would have been possible without the great team cooperation that was displayed throughout the season. It was this, along with the memory of last year's loss to Arlington, that enabled the Maroons to topple Waltham gaining sole possession of first place in the game of the year.

An honor to both the team as a whole and the individuals concerned was the selection of Frank Costa, Steve Sanson, and Doug Auld for the All-Scholastic Team. Their consistently outstanding performances inspired their teammates to do likewise. It was inspiration, a fine coach, and team cooperation that allowed this year's team to bid farewell to the '68 season with their heads held high.

Frank Costa goes for the first down.

Weymouth High Football Team. Front: R. MacDonald, S. Boc, M. McGlynn, D. Gentile, E. Diamond, S. Sanson, J. Gillis, D. Auld, F. Costa, K. Wilson, J. Shober, R. Schleiff, R. Cugno, R. Tuffy. Second row: Coach Wheeler, R. Gumpright, F. Baldassini, W. McCurdy, F. Finnegan, R. Lamrock, G. Byron, R. Lindstrom, M. Devlin, P. Dodwell, M. Craffey, R. Mell, D. Tourigney, B. Fitzpatrick. Third row: Mr. Hayes, W. Dempsey, W. MacDonald, P. Youngclaus, B. Burke, P. Monihan, P. Caulfield, G. Brennan, R. Conrad, M. Gladis, S. Pierce, M. Jarvis, R. Franco, E. Briscoe, Mr. Jannino.

Quarterback Ken Wilson calls the play.

The opposition rushes to block a kick.

Co-captains Doug Auld and Jeff Gillis prepare for a winning season.

Line Coach Hayes looks over the defense.

Coach Wheeler anxiously watches the game progress.

CHEERLEADERS

This year's cheerleaders, headed by Linda Sass, were a fine example of school spirit. During the fall they remained faithful to our undefeated football team, cheering them on to victory in spite of muddy field conditions. Basketball season found them spurring our team onward to qualify for the Tech Tourney. Dedicated work and enthusiasm prompted a welcome response from the entire student body.

PEP CLUB

Charging the air with excitement, the Pep Club aided the cheerleaders by urging the boys to victory. This spirited group of students, led by President Bill Earle, aroused much school spirit, participating both at the games and at sports rallies. Through these two organizations, Weymouth has been called "the most spirited school on the South Shore."

Staunch supporters at all Weymouth High athletic events can be found in the members of the Pep Club.

BASKETBALL

Chico jumps for the ball.

Out into the world went the class of '67 and the memories of an undefeated basketball season. Left was Coach Kearns and a group of athletes determined to devote themselves to basketball and success.

Everyday practice was a must and a reality to all of the future hopefuls. This devotion paid off as the team started off a strong season by winning the first eight games before losing to an aggressive Waltham squad. The remainder of the twenty game schedule, although marred by four more losses, was revived by a spectacular win over Quincy which brought back the momentum lost after the first defeat.

Qualifying for the Tech Tourney, Weymouth found itself matched against Waltham. However, flying high and backed by a tremendous following of school-spirited, balloon-throwing fans, Weymouth crushed Waltham with a stunning team effort. Going into the quarterfinals, Weymouth was matched against a strong New Bedford team. Although the Whalers outdistanced the Maroons, the hard-fought, hustling contest displayed every phase of a great game, Basketball.

HOCKEY

Led by All-Stars Jim Heffernan, Bob Haley, and Mark Sullivan, Weymouth finished fourth in the South Shore League. The other seniors who played well were Rudy Pompeo and Jim Davin. The team impressed their large following with season's highlights including a 2-2 tie with first-place Catholic Memorial. Also notable was a 2-0 victory over third-place Archbishop Williams. The last game of the season proved to be one of the most exciting as Weymouth fought to a 5-5 tie against Hingham, scoring more goals against Hingham than any other team had previously this season, and also dropping them to a second-place league finish. A number of tough breaks prevented Weymouth from playing in the State Tournament. These included four one goal losses to the top three teams. With the return of many outstanding juniors, Vic Puntiri, Bill Dempsey, Rick Yetman, and Phil Youngclaus, Coach Dempsey has reason to expect another successful season next year.

WRESTLING

Bob Schleiff overpowers his opponent on the road to victory.

This year's wrestling team, one of the hardest working ever, placed in the top part of the Bay State League with a record of five wins and three losses.

Under the direction of Coach Jannino, the Weymouth grapplers were turned into a team of accomplished wrestlers. The team found qualified leaders in co-captains Rod Laniewski and Russ Huntington. Juniors Bill Hendry, undefeated throughout the regular season, and Tom Hayward sparked the team. In the post-season Bay State Tournament, Rod Laniewski and Bob Schleiff placed first; Scott Willy placed second; Hendry, third; Rick Lindstrom, fourth; and Russ Huntington and Tom Hayward placed fifth in their classes.

A wrestler must combine strength, speed, and knowledge of wrestling skills if he is to win. No other sport demands such discipline and grueling conditioning of the mind and body.

Weymouth's cross country team had an off season this year. They consistently outscored their opponents. Unfortunately, the low score wins. Leading Weymouth were co-captains Norman Weeks and John L. Sullivan, who, along with John Bambrick, Don Bambrick, and Joe Rosado saw Weymouth to a twelfth place finish in the state meet. The potential displayed by juniors and sophomores indicates a more successful season to come.

WINTER TRACK

John Sullivan sets the pace for John Bambrick, Don Cummings, and Charlie Dacey.

The winter track team produced a second Class A championship this year. Although they tied for second place in the Metropolitan League, the team bounced back to easily win the state meet for the first time since 1963. Not only did the team do well collectively, but several individuals excelled as well. John Roanowicz broke the school shot put record by several feet, while junior Joe Rosado broke the record he set as a sophomore in the 600-yard run. John L. Sullivan had the distinction of compiling a three year undefeated record in the 1000 yard run. Rated as the best team in the state by their performances was the relay team of senior Ed Diamond, and juniors Bill Morin, Paul Horrigan, and Joe Rosado. With these juniors returning again next year, Coach O'Leary can look forward to having as promising a season as '68.

Co-captained by Ed Diamond and Norm Weeks, the 1968 spring track team is poised for perhaps its best season ever. Pointing for the Eastern Massachusetts Interscholastic Relays, Class A State Championship, and possibly the New England title, the team will utilize balance and experience in the form of John Sullivan, State Indoor 1000 yard champion; two-mile record holder Norm Weeks; Ed Diamond, second in the State Indoor fifty-yard dash; John Roanowicz, State Indoor shot put champion; Paul Horrigan, third in the State Indoor 300; State Indoor third place finisher in the 600, Joe Rosado; and Suburban League pole vault record holder, Don Cummings.. The team, dubbed "Potentially the best team I've ever had" by Coach O'Leary, will seek to expand its undefeated dual meet wins to its fourth year.

Moments of anticipation.

SPRING TRACK

Almost perfect for Quincy, but Weymouth is triumphant.

BOYS' GYMNASTICS

A successful season in relation to the number of wins and losses does not necessarily determine the accomplishments of a team. Led by captain Tim Doherty, Weymouth High's boys' gymnastic team won only one meet this year, but the boys involved gained much.

Directed by Mr. Frado and Mr. Hayes, the boys performed on the high bar, the horse, the parallel bars, and the rings. In learning these new skills and by constantly practicing them, these boys obtained and maintained top physical condition. Hoping for more student interest next year, the boys are planning on a more successful season.

GIRLS' GYMNASTICS

Members of the Girls' Gymnastic Team attentively watch the competition of an opposing team.

Gymnastics, one of the few varsity sports offered to girls at Weymouth High, is also one of the most popular with sports fans. Under the direction of Mrs. Frado and Mrs. Boczanowski, the girls perform their routines in interscholastic meets with area schools. They exhibit their skills in the floor exercise, and on the uneven parallel bars, the vaulting horse, the trampoline, and the balance beam. The team practices diligently throughout the season to develop the agility, coordination, grace, and stamina needed for the strict competition in gymnastics. With the addition of several talented sophomores to the nucleus of last year's team, Weymouth will undoubtedly have one of its best years. Junior high students also work out with the team to learn new skills.

BOYS' GYM

Mark Gifford struggles with rings.

Monkey Business!

An effective physical education program makes a great contribution both to the strength of its students and to the strength of the nation.

The boys' gym classes cover many areas of physical activity. Directed by Mr. O'Leary, Mr. Hayes, and Mr. Jannino, the boys begin the year by running to Legion Field for football. When the days grow cold, the gridiron is replaced by trampoline and basketball court. Later, gymnastics and wrestling keep the boys fit. Classes are resumed at Legion Field in the spring for track and field, and, finally, for softball.

GIRLS' GYM

The mysteries of accuracy can often be perplexing.

All Weymouth High girls participate in the physical education program. Thanks to the sincere efforts of Miss Arnold and Miss Cullity, these two weekly periods are enjoyable.

The girls participate in basketball, speedball, gymnastics, field hockey, volleyball, badminton, tennis, and softball. In understanding these games, the girls acquire a sense of good sportsmanship.

A new program of intramural basketball was initiated this year. Many girls participated after school in the contests to decide which division was best. Physical education provided a memorable and enjoyable time in every girl's program.

With a rap of the gavel, President Steve Douglas opens the weekly meetings.

KEY CLUB

The purpose of the Weymouth High Key Club is to instill qualities of leadership in each member and to better prepare him to accept the responsibilities of society.

The faculty advisor, Mr. Daly, and the officers work with Mr. Warren, the spokesman between the Key Club and its sponsor, the Weymouth Kiwanis Club.

Key Club members donated food for Thanksgiving baskets which were given to needy families in the town; and in school service, they distributed programs at the football games and ran the Book Fair in conjunction with the Debate Club. The proceeds from the Book Fair and other money-raising projects are combined to present a college scholarship to a deserving senior.

Patriotism to school, community, and country is reflected in the salute to the flag at the beginning of each meeting.

Willingness to learn to become better school citizens is reflected in the attentive faces of Key Club members.

STUDENT COUNCIL

The Student Council is an elected organization which serves as a link between faculty and student body. Elections are held each spring to determine membership for the following academic year. Representatives must maintain good academic averages to remain members. The officers, under the guidance of Miss Martinez and Mr. Brizzi, are Joseph Corbo, Leslie McKinnon, Paula Pilato, John O'Brien, and Kenneth Wilson.

The council promoted many entertaining and beneficial activities this year. Over six hundred students attended "The Look In", the fall dance. Thanksgiving baskets were collected and given to welfare agencies for distribution to less fortunate Weymouth families; and during the Christmas season the Globe Santa arrived, beard, elves, and all, and the students contributed generously for a worthy cause. Proceeds from the fall dance and the talent show, also sponsored by the council, are included in the two Student Council scholarships given to graduating seniors.

Vice-President Leslie McKinnon reviews the problems at hand with the council members.

Officers of the student council prepare for the next meeting with Miss Martinez.

Mr. Brizzi and Miss Martinez supervise the weekly meeting.

Student Council's weekly meeting is opened as President Joe Corbo presents the agenda.

J.M.S.V.C.

Under the direction of Mrs. Magraw, Robert Bentley, Chairman; David Killory, Junior Chairman; and Joan Robbins, Secretary; the Junior Moral and Spiritual Values Committee works to achieve the goal of its motto, "In Giving We Grow," by rendering service to the less fortunate children and adults in the area.

The Committee for the Blind, headed by Kathleen Daley, holds get-togethers with area blind children and students at the Perkins School for the Blind. Activities at these meetings usually include dancing, singing, and talent shows. Once a year the committee takes the children rollerskating and bowling.

Another group of students, led by Michael Shanahan, works with the handicapped. They unselfishly devote some of their weekend time to visit the Paul Dever State School to help feed and entertain the patients there.

Kathy Daley acts as a guide for Joan Hyland at the reception for guests during International Brotherhood Week.

The Hospital Committee, under co-chairmen Mary Moss and Patricia Duffy, does volunteer work in nursing homes, makes decorations and favors, and collects clothing to send to patients at various state schools and hospitals. They also help pattern cerebral palsy patients in Weymouth.

The J.M.S.V.C. also sponsored International Brotherhood Week and the Brotherhood assemblies, which featured foreign students and performances by some of the blind children in the program, Ed Clute, Chris Devin, and Joan Hyland.

Members of the Junior Moral and Spiritual Values Committee work together to render service to their fellow citizens.

Mrs. Magraw poses with guests from Mexico, Japan, Germany, India, and Argentina during Brotherhood Week.

Ed Clute, a student at the New England Conservatory of Music, receives applause after his piano solo.

F.T.A.

The Future Teachers of America is devoted to enabling students interested in the teaching profession to discover the merits of a career as an elementary or secondary school teacher. Under the capable guidance of Miss Pearson and the club's officers, Ronald Johnson, President; Shelagh Gray, Vice-President; Claire Donahoe, Secretary; and Susan Hanian, Treasurer; the members attend monthly meetings which offer guest speakers in the field of education. Another valuable feature of the club is student observation of elementary and junior high school classes during the school day. This allows members to see elementary educational methods from a professional point of view and to understand the more specialized teaching at the junior high level.

F.T.A. members listen as a guest speaker lectures on the topic of first grade adjustments.

Officers confer with the advisor about a future meeting: Claire Donahoe, Ron Johnson, Miss Pearson, and Sue Hanian.

Mr. Warren lectures about music education to an attentive audience.

President Ron Johnson conducts a business meeting.

F.N.A.

It is always difficult to choose a profession without knowing what it involves. Under the direction of Mrs. Hoyle, the school nurse, and the officers, Patricia Sullivan, Barbara Mullen, Elaine Akunevich, and Susan Murphy, the Future Nurses of America tries to give girls interested in any field of medicine an inside look into the world of nursing and its related professions. At the Red Cross Bloodmobiles held four times a year, the members offer their services, aiding in taking temperatures, working at the registration desk, and attending donors in the blood room. The informative monthly meetings feature guest speakers whose topics range from the many nursing careers to the effects of smoking.

President Pat Sullivan broadens her knowledge in the field of nursing.

Mrs. Hoyle points out details of a case.

Members practice first aid on each other.

F.H.A.

The goal of every member of the Future Homemakers of America Club is to strive "Toward New Horizons" by development of character at home and in community life. Led by advisor Mrs. Swain, members enjoyed many rewarding activities this year. Outings included a cook-out at Blue Hills and a trip to the state convention of Future Homemakers of America held in Bourne. An important project of the club was helping the less fortunate children at the Wrentham State Hospital have a happier Easter. At meetings, activities range from guest speakers and discussion groups to holiday parties. This year's officers are Noreen Twomey, Sharon Provost, Lorraine Lermond, Linda Donway, Jean Wooten, Leanne Giampetro, Karen Mortenson, and Jane Threlfall.

Members of F.H.A. watch as a fellow member presents a demonstration of beauty care.

Officers skim through a scrap book of past activities.

Miss Curran reviews the agenda with the officers of F.B.L.A.

F.B.L.A.

Under the supervision of Miss Curran, the Future Business Leaders of America tries to acquaint its members with the complex business world. F.B.L.A. meetings usually feature guest speakers who represent varied professions in the business field. The speakers, who may be stewardesses, executive secretaries, or insurance agents, inform the club members about their professions and business ethics, and also share their valuable experiences. The F.B.L.A. serves its members by providing knowledge and experience which cannot be obtained in the classroom. Officers are Sandra Dzengelewski, Rosemary Adam, Kathleen Elliot, Linda Healy, and Karen McGurr.

Kathy Elliott hands out membership cards to the members of the club.

Our future lies in their hands!

Alan Wilson and Duncan Allen tackle a tough problem.

MATH CLUB

Weymouth High School's five-member Math Team is a subdivision of the Math Club. Members of the club serve as alternates for the team which competes four times a year in the Greater Boston Mathematics League. This year's team was a novice team as none of its members had ever participated in such an activity before. However, under the supervision of the coaches, Mrs. Clayton and Mr. Duseau, and with experience gained from the first meet with Braintree High School, the team improved until it placed third at Thayer Academy in a field of six teams. The team gained support from the club members and coaches, who helped them improve the mathematical skills needed for competition. The members of the varsity team were seniors Toby Lyons and Kevin Beggs, juniors Paul Watson and Peter Gordon, and sophomore Kathy Owens.

Mr. Duseau watches as Toby Lyons and Kevin Beggs attack their problems.

Conservation-minded members of the outdoor club seek to preserve our forests.

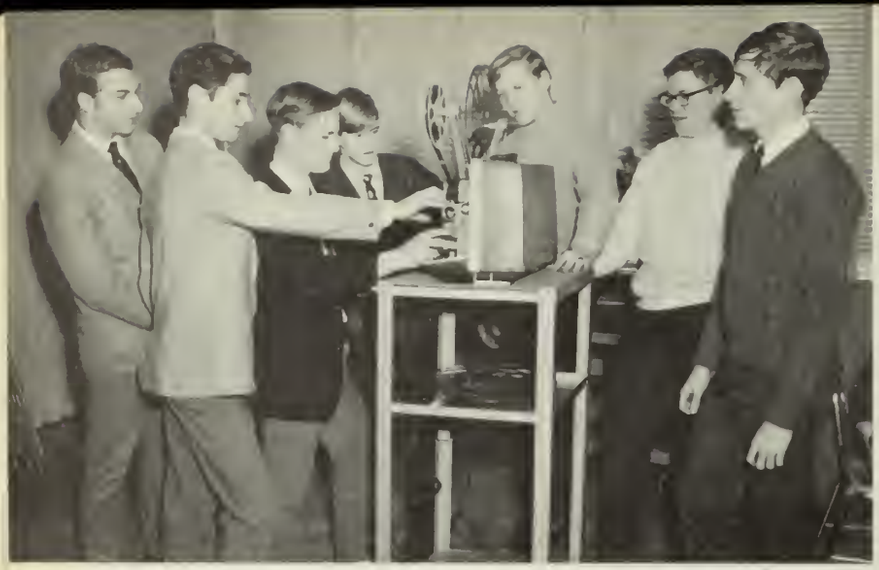
OUTDOORS CLUB

Under the advisors Mr. Mekeel and Mr. Kelly and officers Pat Brennan, Stephen Cashman, Thomas Abbott and Joseph Collett, the members of the Outdoors Club have the opportunity to enjoy outdoor activities such as sports events or camping trips. The weekend or vacation week trips are frequently taken in trailers where the boys can experience the rugged life.

CHESS CLUB

Chess is the sport of kings, and the Chess Club members find the game stimulating intellectual entertainment. Under advisor Mr. Lofgren and officers Richard Robinson and Clifford Cowles, members improve and perfect their skills in strategy and judgment. A chess team composed of club members represented Weymouth in the South Shore Interscholastic Chess League.

Mr. Lofgren points out disaster to one of the members of the Chess Club.



Bob Gohl, Bob Mulligan, Tim Malnati, Glen Gillis, Bill Rand, Bill Sargent and Jim Furbush discuss the parts of a movie projector.

A.V. CLUB

Under the skilled leadership of Mr. Rudolph and Mr. Sedman, the audio-visual assistants meet during free periods and after school in the I.M.C. The goal of the club is to provide the school with superior technical assistance while learning about all phases of the audio-visual field. The members operate sound, slide, opaque, and overhead projectors, tape recorders, duplicators, and television cameras; and maintain a workshop for the repair of all visual aids equipment. They also aid WHS-TV and Drama Club productions.

The members of WHS-TV work diligently to present the students each week with a program of school news and current events.

WHS-TV

WHS-TV, run by the Political Affairs Club, gives students interested in all aspects of television production the opportunity to experience live broadcasting. The newscasters, sportscasters, interviewers, and technical crew, under the guidance of Miss Marinos, Mr. Sedman, and Mr. Rudolph, present a weekly news program featuring important news and sports events. Special programs included interviews with foreign students and sports' coaches, a special Christmas show, and a program devoted to political satire.

Bill Rand operates a camera during the weekly news telecast.

Daniel Gentile, Mr. Brizzi, and Mr. Masters entertain the club with a song about George Wallace.

President Robert Neumeier points out trouble spots in Asia to Secretary Lee Fay.

POLITICAL AFFAIRS

Political Affairs Club members discuss the legal backgrounds of U.S. foreign policy.

The Political Affairs Club is a new club formed by students interested in politics and current events. The club is unique in its operation in that the members participate actively in group discussions and the teachers are participants as well as advisors. President Robert Neumeier and Miss Marinos, Mr. Brizzi, Mr. Masters, and Mr. Meehan stimulate discussion and keep meetings informative. Regular activities of the club include the WHS-TV programs and weekly meetings featuring guest speakers and discussions. Members also produced the special TV program of political satire, and took a four-day trip to Washington, D.C. during the April vacation.

CHORUS

Under the direction of Mr. Richard Burns, the Weymouth Chorus members are given the opportunity to perfect their skills in singing and in reading music. Meeting five times a week, the Chorus has time to develop and then improve their selections for upcoming concerts. Beyond this activity, individual students have the chance to participate in District Festival, All-State, and New England Concerts.

A versatile chorus, they study all the works from Bach to modern show tunes. Their performances have included the Christmas Concert, appearances at Old South Union Church and Boston University, and the Spring Concert. As our Chorus performs, they not only enrich their own lives, but they also make brighter and more pleasant the lives of their audience.

Members of chorus lift their voices in song.

Determination and hard work triumph during a good concert.

Mr. Burns artfully leads the choir through a difficult selection.

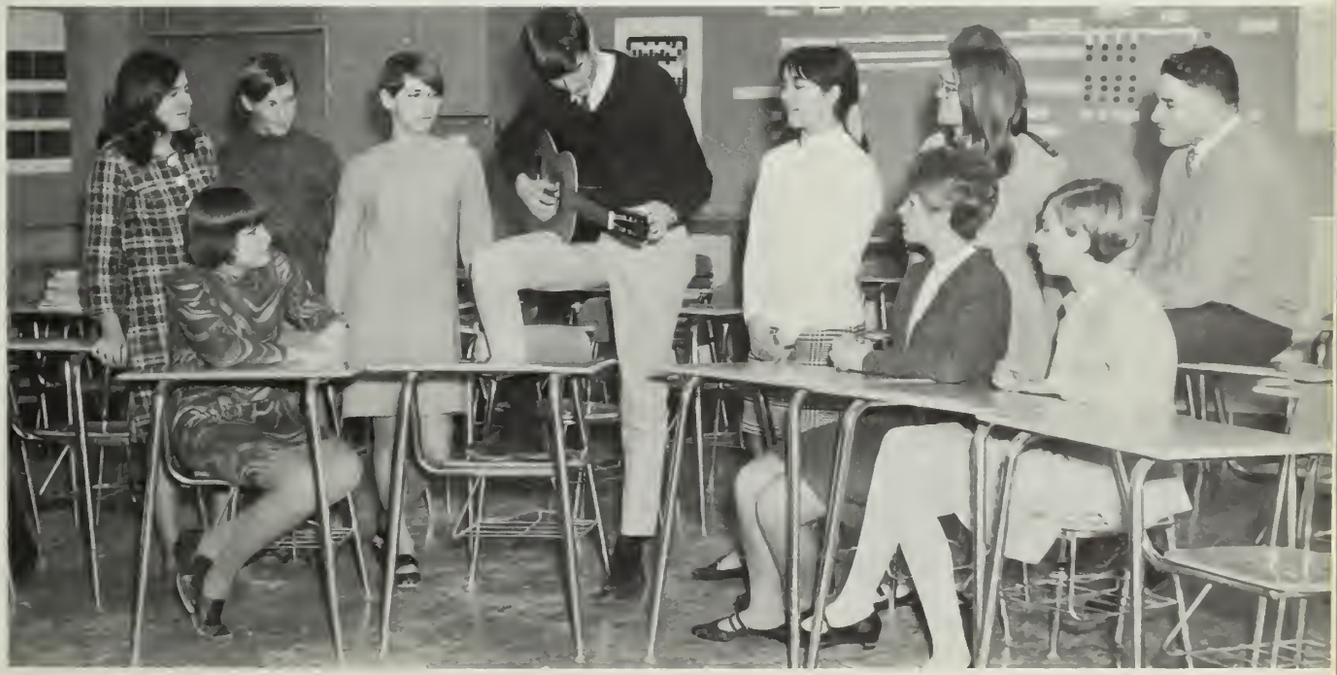
Edith Beatty presents a humorous folk ballad at the weekly meeting.

FOLK MUSIC SOCIETY

This year the students of Weymouth High had the opportunity to enjoy ethnic and topical folk music in the newly-formed Folk Music Society. Advisor Mr. Burgess and President Karen McCann supervise the weekly meetings which feature individual and group presentations of songs which are drawn from all phases of the evolution of folk music from early European ballads to modern folk rock.

Meetings are sometimes devoted to the listening of records of current folk artists such as Bob Dylan, Phil Ochs, and Joan Baez. Besides learning new songs and becoming acquainted with the wide variety of folk music, the members who play folk instruments have the opportunity to learn new techniques and to perfect their skills. The Society's activities also included the Christmas show on WHS-TV.

New techniques on folk guitar are learned at each meeting.



The Weymouth High School not only plays for numerous concerts, but also provides half-time entertainment at the football games.

BAND

The Weymouth High School Band, under the direction of Mr. Warren, fulfilled its large schedule of activities again this year. Regular activities of the band included the football games, the Veterans' Day and Memorial Day parades, and the Spring Concert. The concert band also performed at the Norfolk County Teachers' Association Convention and at a special concert with Myron Floren.

The band meets every day to prepare for football games, parades and concerts. They rehearse music ranging from Bach and Mozart to show tunes and modern jazz. Members benefit by learning about music theory while improving technique on their instrument. Certain qualified band members, chosen through audition, participate in the District, All-State, and New England concert festivals.

MAJORETTES

The majorettes add a spark of color and zest to our marching band.

The Weymouth High majorettes are an eye-catching addition to the band for the football season and the Veterans' and Memorial Day parades. Under the supervision of Jane Richardson and co-head Michele MacKay, majorettes Patricia McInnis, Denise O'Shaughnessy, and Janis Szymanski practice routines for the football half-time shows and they aid the band by leading the marching and maneuvering on the football field.

ORCHESTRA

The Weymouth High School Orchestra, under the able direction of Mr. Burke, benefits promising young musicians in many ways. They have the opportunity to play with other students and to improve their skills on their own specific instruments. Among their many appearances were the Christmas and Spring Concerts. Selected members were also given the chance to perform in the District and All-State Festivals.

Through years of practice, the members of the bass section have perfected their skills on their instruments.

Members of the Weymouth High Orchestra perform in numerous concerts under the direction of Mr. Burke.

SENIOR CLASS PLAY

This year's senior class presented Arsenic and Old Lace as its class play. The large cast provoked laughter and merriment as they deftly executed the story of two old ladies competing with their nephew for the amount of murders they could commit. The production moved smoothly with the aid of the backstage crew, the special committees, and the faculty advisors.

The make-up committee works diligently with the members of the cast.

THURBER CARNIVAL

The Theater Arts Club proudly presents Thurber Carnival.

"What do you mean, Mr. Preble, you don't know your lines?"

"If Grant had been drinking at Appomattox . . ."

Sonny Sprague gives advice on the proper care of animals as his secretary, Mary Barnhart, reads various problems.

In February the Theater Arts Club presented A Thurber Carnival. Juniors and seniors combined their talents to present a series of skits written by James Thurber that satirize both events in history and the foibles of common people. It was a refreshingly different form of comedy; not a musical, bazaar, or play. Some principal parts were taken by Mark Olson, Dianne Connolly, Wendy Ross, Duncan Allen, Kathy O'Brien, and Tom Young.

TALENT SHOW

"I can see it all now," said Ed, a twinkle of revenge in his eyes, "The Goodnight Show starring Ed Shazam." The audience was shocked. Did Ed Shazam conquer the great Johnny Parson and take over the Goodnight Show? What happened to Johnny? These questions and many more were answered as Weymouth High presented its annual Talent Show, directed by Mr. Brizzi and Mr. Masters. As Johnny Carson would say, it was "OK."

To go or not to go, that is the question.

Mr. Brizzi directs Bob Gumpright, as Ed Shazam, and Tom Young, as Johnny Parson, hosts of the Goodnight Talent Show.

REFLECTOR

More than a school newspaper, the Reflector is a literary magazine which has earned awards from the Boston Globe and the Columbia Scholastic Press Association. It draws its original articles, poetry and creative prose, from the student body, and concerns itself with the topical issues such as the Hippy movement, the theme of the fall Reflector. Under the able and experienced guidance of Miss Andem, the junior and senior staff members, chosen by application in the sophomore year, meet Wednesday afternoons with editor Maureen Meskimen and assistant editor Diane Maynard. At meetings they discuss articles and themes for upcoming issues.

Specialized columns, handled individually by particularly interested staff members, revolve around the issue's central theme. Sketches, cover design, and layout of the articles, completed by the art staff complement the theme. The secretarial staff types selected articles and sends them to the vocational school print shop, where the finished magazine is produced. Regular features include Snoops, interviews with students; The Spy, an in-depth report on teachers; and coverage of special school events.

The Reflector Art Staff goes over some layout plans with Mr. Chop.

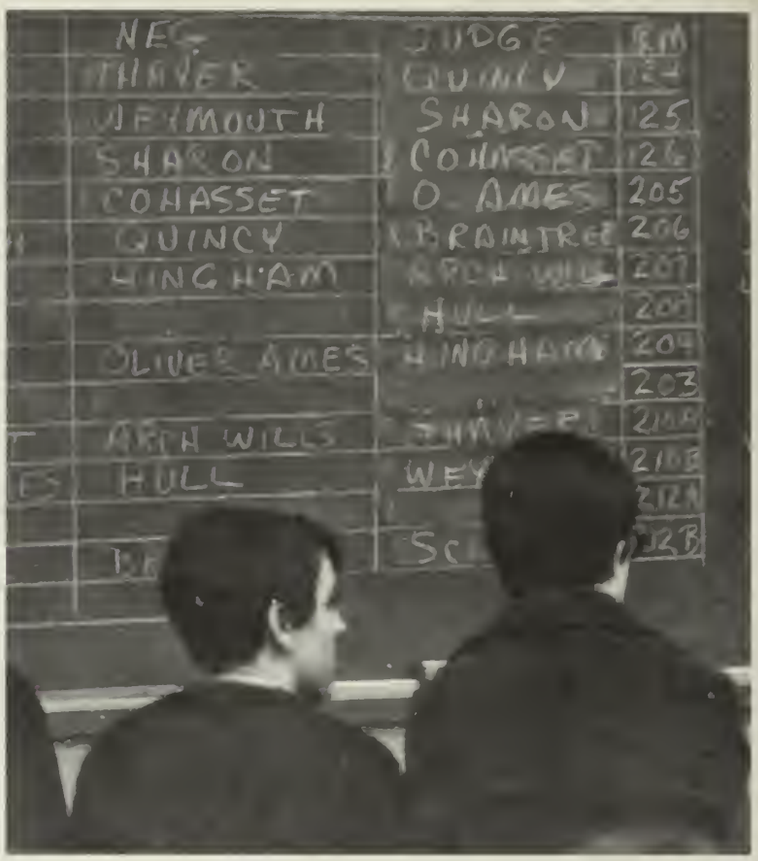
Jolene Cazzola, Debbie Tirrell, Marty Martinson, Pam Brackett, and Laurie Mechan discuss plans for a future issue with Editor Sue Brenner.

Tom Young, Kathy Eacobacci, and Maureen Meskimen ponder over their advertising campaign.

The Reflector Literary Staff tries to improve some articles for a better publication.

DEBATING CLUB

The Debating Society is a group of students comprising a team which debates the national high school topic. Besides participating in seven regular South Shore League matches, the Society has attended all-day tournaments at Stonehill College, Melrose High and Thayer Academy. Led by Mr. Fox, the team also attended a weekend tournament at Columbia University in New York. There they debated the resolution: that Congress should establish uniform regulations to control criminal investigation procedures. Active members of this year's team include: Kevin Beggs, David Sheehan, Charles Pritchard, Patrick Ryan, Kathy O'Brien, Diane Bosche, and Sarah Bowen.



Kathy O'Brien and Nancy Sciarappa await room assignments for the Hingham-Weymouth and Weymouth-Quincy debates.

Some members of the debating team prepare to take the defense for Weymouth.

Success is imminent with Charles Pritchard at the podium.

Members of the Conservation Club receive instructions from their advisor, Miss Toomey.

CONSERVATION CLUB

Sharing their avid interest in nature and natural sciences with elementary school children is one of the many activities of the Conservation Club. Under the direction of Miss Toomey, the club members have toured Great Esker Park, a tract of land slated for nature preservation; and they have also presented lectures to school children on animal and plant life. In this way the important task of preserving our natural resources can be instilled in young children who, when they are older, will be better prepared to face the problem of conservation. Co-chairmen William Longridge and Diane Maynard preside over the monthly meetings.

Co-chairman Bill Longridge presents the agenda at the weekly meeting.

David O'Malley explains the cell structure to Linda Berkeley.

RIDING CLUB

The Riding Club, although it is not sponsored by Weymouth High School, is allowed to hold weekly meetings in one of the classrooms. These meetings are devoted to the planning and preparation for Saturday riding trips. On Saturdays the club members congregate at the high school before leaving for an hour of riding at local stables. There they learn the techniques of riding from each other and also from capable instructors.

President Dennis Meade directs suggestions for future riding excursions.

Members of the Riding Club listen attentively to a guest speaker.

SKI CLUB

Dave Killory and John Scott listen attentively to Mr. Burgess.

The Ski Club provides an opportunity for members to go on ski trips and improve their technique, and for non-skiers to learn a new sport. With Mr. Burgess and Mr. Murphy as advisors, the members journeyed to Mt. Sunapee for a day trip and to Mt. Pleasant for a weekend trip. Officers were John Scott, President; Barbara Scott, Vice-President; Leslie McKinnon, Secretary; Stephen Adams, Treasurer; and David Killory, Assistant Treasurer.

Weymouth High presents the Ski Club.

SPANISH CLUB

The Spanish Club, supervised by Mr. Player, meets irregularly on Tuesdays or Thursdays. During the meetings, the members plan various activities. One such activity was a trip into Boston to see Antonio and his Flaminco Dancers. The Spanish Club participated in the Mardi Gras, decorating the Spanish booth with the help of Miss Papps. The Club also planned the farewell party for Miss Rodgers, providing refreshments and gifts.

Let's plan a trip to Mexico.

The Spanish Club poses with Mr. Player and Miss Papps.

Mr. Player and President Karen Pharmer discuss the agenda for the next meeting.

Advisors Mr. Player and Miss Papps discuss a phase of Spanish life with Karen Pharmer and Carla Genovesi.

CAMERA CLUB

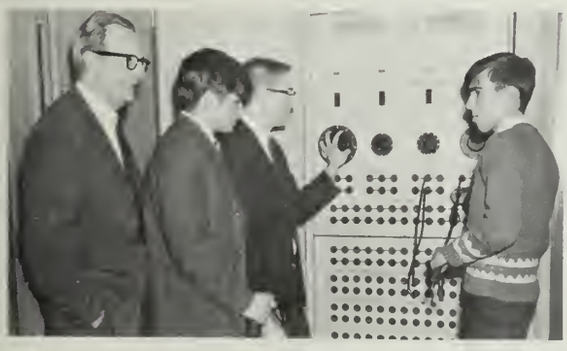
The Camera Club, under the direction of Mr. Sedman, gives students the opportunity to learn about all phases of photography. The club members are instructed in the mechanics of photography, including the complete process of film development, methods of enlarging, and the skillful use of the Physics darkroom.

The negatives are inspected carefully.

LABORATORY ASSISTANTS

The lab assistants serve their teachers and fellow students by keeping the chemistry and physics labs clean. They work on projects that are of interest to the entire membership, and they sponsored the science fair in March which consisted of projects submitted by single students and groups.



Mr. Ghiorse, Richard Tollo, Charles Pritchard, and Jeff O'Callaghan study the transmission of electrical currents.

Glen Gillis, Klaus Bartels, and Paul Gardner enlarge pictures.

LIBRARY ASSISTANTS

With the aid of the student library assistants, Weymouth students are better able to understand and use the library. The assistants devote some of their time before and after school and during study periods to charge and shelve books. While they help fellow classmates, they increase their own knowledge of the library.

LANGUAGE LABORATORY ASSISTANTS

To the students of Weymouth High, the language laboratory offers various means of mastering their specific language, whether it be French, Spanish, or Russian. Modern equipment, manuals, tapes concerning grammar and foreign music, and lab assistants allow the teacher to give individual help to her students.

"What seems to be the trouble here?"

Members of the Distributive Education Club of America conduct studies and surveys to aid the economic development of the community. By learning the qualities of leadership by participation, they gain experience and confidence for future jobs. Officers are: Charles Bean, Chris Scagnoli, Michelle Hollis, and Donna Piccuito.

DRIVER EDUCATION

The Driver Education classes have been very successful in furthering the driving skills of Weymouth students. Taught by Mr. Mahn, Mr. Whitmore, and Mr. O'Byrne, the classes are aimed at aiding the students in achieving better attitudes and better citizenship. Automobiles for road training are provided by local dealers.

Mr. Whitmore explains the mechanics of the engine to three future drivers.

CAMPUS

Kathy Daley and Bob Gohl check proofs with Mr. Clayton.

Each year the editors and staff members of the Campus, under the capable guidance of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton, face the task of capturing three memorable years of high school and binding them into a yearbook. Work begins early in the year as senior staff members collect interviews from seniors and compose their biographies. The clubs and sports staffs are soon active, compiling facts about the clubs, athletic teams, and special events. The typists and proofreaders work diligently to ready material for deadlines. Layouts are created by the art staff, advised by Mr. Chop, and photos are carefully cropped after selection. While this effort continues through to April, the sales staff works long and hard to collect the many dollars needed to support the publication.

Janice Sciarappa and Mr. Chop plan the layouts.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

We, the Campus Staff of 1968, wish to express our deepest gratitude to the numerous people whose time and effort have made our yearbook possible. To name all the individuals involved in this publication would be impossible. Due to their special efforts, though, we would like to mention a few: the administration, faculty, and staff of the Weymouth High School and Annex who unselfishly helped us through our times of trouble; the Peter Pauper Press who provided us with the haiku verses used throughout the yearbook; Mr. and Mrs. John Hobbs, our photographers and specials friends, who were always there with helpful suggestions; Mr. Stephen Chop, who provided a constant source of advice and novel ideas; and especially Mr. and Mrs. Richard Clayton, our patient advisors, whose assistance, cooperation, and dedication encouraged each one of us to do his best to make this yearbook a success.

As members of the class of 1968, we are graduating into the complex adult stage of life. These past three years have served as a preparation period, increasing our knowledge, developing our intellect, and generally broadening our scope as individuals. Weymouth High School has molded each of us as citizens, but still greater development lies ahead. If properly used, the memories and experiences gained from our high school years will benefit our every endeavor. For only by persevering to achieve our goals and making the best of every situation will we become competent citizens and leaders of tomorrow. With heads held high and confidence in our hearts, let us look ahead to the future and continue our incipient exploration of ideas. We are proud of Weymouth High School; may Weymouth High School be proud of us.
